Not illustrated. 1857 Excerpt: .of Scripture, in which the writer of the Book of Jor says that the Almighty mads a way for the lightning of the thunder. A calm and confiding state of mind during terrific thunder-storms is exceedingly requisite, and a humble trnsting in that protection which the great Creator extends over all the work of his hands. It will afford me gratification to be of service to any and every body, and any informntion that may be needed as to particular cases will be answered with all convenient dispatheh, on application by letter by mail or otherwise. I can not close this paper, long as it is, withont adding something in relation to the best mode of resnscitating persons struck down by lightning. Cold water should be freely nsed, and the body first sprinkled with cold water, and then drenched with water, and this should be continned...
