

Pluralist Politics And Poems On Reverence: Love And Sorrow

By Harcharan Singh

2008. Hardcover. Book Condition: New. 192 As a regular visitor House Library used to read and write a lot. Besides writing articles for Daily Tribune and many magazines from 1953 to 1960. I had been working on philosophy of Prof. Laski who was my ideal as of many of my generation. I wrote a chapter on Prof. Laski and showed it to Dr. M S Venketaraman who was Additional Director of School of International Studies. He very much appreciated and so started studying and writing on Laski. This book about Pluralist Philosophy of Laski is very relevant in India and newly developing countries of Asia and Africa. Most of these poems were written originally in Punjabi and published as 'PAYAR TE ROSSA'. The present volumes mentions poems on reverence and pure love and intense sorrow. Reverence for parents and Guru Nanak come first then poem about pure love for wife, family, my country and humanity. Some poems are about my reaction to conquest of moon, my own feelings about aim of one's life, love and sacrifice. As I was moved the most by attack on Golden Temple and demolition of Babri Masjid there poems are symbolic of heart rendering sorrow. About The...
