Excerpt: .organized under general state supervision and a control partly state and partly local, but independent of the regular local boards of education, receive state aid to the extent of half the expense of maintenance, though the whole cost must first be raised by local taxation in addition to the taxes assessed for or through the usual system of public schools. The bullentins of this society will hereafter be referred to as Bulletin Number I, II, etc. For a skeptic, or for one wishing to review the main argument, wo would suggest the following books and reports as informing and suggestive: Report of Massachusetts Commission. 1906; Beginnings of Industrial Education. Paul Hanus: Education for Efficiency. Eugene Davenport: Report of the Committee on the Place of Industries in Public Education. N. E. A. 1910: The Worker and the State, Arthur D. Dean: Vocational Education, David Snedden. All cities and towns may provide independent industrial schools for instruction in the principles of agriculture and the domestic, and mechanic arts, but attendance upon such schools of children under fourteen years of age shall not take the place of attendance upon public schools as required by law. In addition to these industrial schools, cities and towns may provide for evening courses for persons already employed in trades, and they may also provide, in the industrial schools and evening schools herein authorized, for the instruction in part-time classes of children between the ages of fourteen and eighteen years who may...
